Japs-Olson Company Orders First-of-its-kind Goss Sunday Web press

Published Monday, October 11, 2010

Minneapolis – Japs-Olson Company has ordered a new eight-unit Goss Sunday 2000 web press that will be configured for highly automated direct mail production. The new gapless Sunday press will be equipped with Goss Autoplate fully automatic plate changing and Automatic Transfer technologies, which will allow four-color job changes to be completed without stopping the press. The new Sunday press at Japs-Olson will interface with an inline finishing system.

Installation will begin mid 2011. The new press will complement an eight-unit Sunday 2000 press with Automatic Transfer capabilities installed in 2007.
